

Action Research Project Participation

Thank you for your interest in my action research project! Please read the following information on the project and how your data will be handled before answering the questions below.

I am in the process of developing a podcast on visual cultural “disasters”. Think: chopstick typefaces, the OJ Simpson Time magazine cover, and how the far right have co-opted Greco-Roman artwork.

What you need to know:

- Interviews and research trips will be semi-structured and recorded via visual fieldnotes.
- The notes from the interview will be published to my PgCert blog as a part of my submission. You may request a preview before publication.
- You can request to remain anonymous.
- Your responses to this consent form can be altered at any point of the project.
- Consent can be withdrawn at anytime.

Please send any further questions to h.stclair@camberwell.arts.ac.uk.
